BACKGROUNDER

Rov Dosanjh discovered his passion for custom home building when he helped his parents build their first family home. That was back in 1991. Even further back, Rov remembers the enjoyment he had while in the two-year carpentry program in high school.

“Working in wood, and bringing out all the fine details was such a pleasure for me,” says Rov. “Even though I ultimately went into Criminology and became a police officer, my passion for building was always there. And I was fortunate: my shift work gave me the opportunity to build homes in my off hours.”

In 2003, Rov partnered with Joe Samra, Dosam Developments Ltd. and in four years completed an impressive 16 projects.

When his partner decided to pursue other interests, it was only natural for Rov to carry on by forming his own company. In 2007, he started Rayn Properties Ltd. The name Rayn (pronounced “rain”) was created from letters within his family’s names – Rov, his wife Satnam, his daughter Simryn, and son Arjin.

Today he works with customers from across Canada who choose Vancouver Island as their home. Rov, together with his in-house staff, works closely with Rayn customers to create exceptional custom homes built for luxury living.

Rov’s calm manner is an asset while working with customers through what typically can be a time of high expenses and high emotion.

“My service is really down to earth. I genuinely like working with people, and can help them feel at ease which is a great foundation to open, honest conversations. Once we’ve got the relationship built, then we can focus on the home. I get the true sense of their lifestyle which makes it possible for me to give them direction and suggestions that will help them remain true to their dream.”

Rov’s uncanny eye for detail is also what keeps good word of mouth working in his favour. Wasted space is turned into something useful and/or beautiful; stairways and hallways are reconfigured so that the traffic flow in the home is natural; rooms are configured to be fully functional.

His talents have been noticed: Rayn Properties has been a CARE Award winner in both 2008 and 2009.

“I love seeing the family living in their custom home, and knowing it’s their perfect place.”
